7.01 Definition

A grievance is an allegation by an employee (or the Union as specified under Article 7.03 below) of a contravention of the provisions of this Agreement. The written grievance shall state the nature of the complaint and the remedy sought.

7.02 (a) Complaints

- (i) An employee who has a complaint shall first raise the matter with the most immediate non-bargaining unit supervisor in his/her department and give that person an opportunity to discuss and adjust the matter. Such a discussion shall take place within ten (10) working days after the circumstances giving rise to the matter have occurred, this period shall be reasonably extended if the circumstances, such as the employee's absence, warrant.
- (ii) The employee may be accompanied by a representative of the Union (e.g. the appropriate Steward), during such discussion if the employee wishes.
- (iii) The first line supervisor may be accompanied by another excluded employee (except the first line supervisor's superior) at any complaint stage meeting.

- (iv) A decision regarding any adjustment shall be made and communicated to the employee by the immediate supervisor within the next ten (10) working days following the discussion. If the decision is not satisfactory or if none is communicated within the above time limit referred to above, the employee may, at his/her option, refer the matter within ten (10) working days to the immediate supervisor's superior at the managerial level, who shall then make and communicate his/her decision within the next ten (10) working days.
- (v) If the employee does not choose to involve the higher level superior referred to above, or if the latter's decision is not satisfactory or is not forthcoming within the time limit prescribed, the employee may lodge a grievance.

(b) Complaint Concerning Job Postings

An employee who is unsuccessful as a result of a job posting process, as provided in Article 15, and disagrees with the decision made concerning his/her candidacy shall first give the hiring manager an opportunity to meet and discuss the recruitment process and provide the employee with the rationale for his/her decision. The hiring manager may be accompanied by another excluded employee at such a meeting.

Such a meeting/discussion shall take place within (6) working days after the decision was communicated to the employee concerned by the Human Resources Department.

This period shall be reasonably extended if the circumstances, such as the employee's absence, warrant. The employee may be accompanied by a representative of the Union (e.g. the appropriate Steward), during such discussion if the employee wishes.

A decision regarding any adjustment shall be made and communicated to the employee by the hiring manager within the next five (5) working days following the discussion. If the decision is not satisfactory or if none is communicated within the time limit referred to above, the employee may lodge a grievance.

7.03 Filing a Grievance

A grievance by the Union (Union grievance) is a grievance concerning the bargaining unit as a whole, or any segment thereof, or the Union itself; if the Union acts on behalf of an individual employee, the

The Executive Director, Human Resources may invite to the meeting such other persons (for example, the appropriate Supervisor, Manager, Director or Dean), as he/she considers advisable to a maximum of five (5). He/she shall render his/her decision on the grievance in writing either at the meeting or within (10) working days from the conclusion of the meeting.

7.05 Answering a Grievance

If the decision of the Executive Director, Human Resources is not satisfactory or if none is communicated within the time limit referred to above, the grievance may be submitted--within ten (10) working days after the expiry of the time limit set out in Article 7.04 above, for the written communication of the decision of the Executive Director, Human Resources--by the Union to arbitration as set forth in Article 9.01 (a) and (b).

7.10 Union Staff Representative

The Union Staff Representative may assist in the preparation or presentation of a written grievance at any step of this procedure as requested by the Local Union.

7.11 Discharge, Suspension, and Alleged Improper Separation from Employment

Where a grievance alleges unjust dismissal, suspension, or improper separation from employment, the complaint stage under Article 7.02 above, shall be by-passed and the grievance shall be filed with the Executive Director, Human Resources within five (5) days of dismissal, suspension, or separation from employment. The employer shall provide a copy of the notice of discharge, suspension, or separation of employment, to the Local Union President at about the same time that such notice is provided to the employee.

7.12 Job Evaluation - Grievance/Arbitration Procedure

Where an employee believes his/her position is improperly classified they may file a grievance, which shall be processed as provided below.

(a) First Stage

- (i) A grievance in writing is submitted to the Manager, Human Resources Consulting and Client Services or his/her designate stating that the incumbent's position is incorrectly graded.
- (ii) The incumbent, incumbent's supervisor, and supervisor's superior and Manager, Human Resources Consulting and Client Services will meet within twenty (20) working days of the receipt of the grievance to obtain agreement that the incumbent's PDQ and job description and any other relevant job information accurately reflects the job being performed.
- (iii) If no agreement is obtained as outlined above, the issue will be addressed in the Second Stage of the process as outlined below.
- (iv) Notwithstanding 7.12(a)(iii) above, the Manager, Human Resources Consulting and Client Services or his/her designate will meet with the complainant/union within (10) working days of the completion of the time lines outlined in Article 7.12(a)(ii) above to learn the desired grade level, and supporting rationale.

- (v) The Manager, Human Resources Consulting and Client Services or his/her designate will respond in writing to the complainant/union within ten (10) working days from the conclusion of the meeting referred to in 7.12(a)(iv) above.

(b) Second Stage

- (i) The complainant if not satisfied with communication received from the Manager, Human Resources Consulting and Client Services or his/her designate may forward a written copy of the grievance to the Manager, Employee Relations or his/her designate within ten (10) working days of advice from the Manager, Human Resources Consulting and Client Services or his/her designate.
- (ii) Manager, Employee Relations or his/her designate will hear the grievance within ten (10) working days of receipt of the grievance. Such discussion may include obtaining agreement with respect to the job description and PDQ and to learn the desired grade level, and supporting rationale.
- (iii) Manager, Employee Relations or his/her designate will respond in writing within ten (10) working days of hearing the grievance.

(c) Third Stage

- (i) Failing resolution through the grievance process, the matter may be referred to Expedited Classification Arbitration as outlined below (the normal arbitration process outlined in Article 9 of the Collective Agreement shall not apply in matters of classification grievance).

7.13 Job Evaluation - Expedited Classification Arbitration

- (a) If the University or grievor requests that a classification grievance be submitted to arbitration, it shall proceed as herein provided.
- (b) Any matter so referred to arbitration, including any question as to whether the matter is arbitrable pursuant to this process, shall be heard by a specially trained sole Arbitrator. The Arbitrator shall be selected by the parties from a list agreed to by them or, failing agreement, by a lot from the agreed-on list, within ten (10) working days of the referral to arbitration.
- (c) All arbitrators shall undergo an initial training session on the Job Evaluation Plan to be presented by the University and such updated training or re-orientation as the University may deem necessary from time to time.

- (d) A single Arbitrator appointed under this expedited procedure shall commence to hear the matter referred within twenty-one (21) working days of his/her appointment wherever possible, and shall issue a brief written notice of his/her decision within fourteen (14) working days of the hearing. Copies of the decision will be sent to the Local union, the OPSEU Grievance Department, and the University.
- (e) The following information shall be received by the Arbitrator no less than fourteen working (14) days prior to the hearing:
- a job description provided by the University;
 - a completed position description questionnaire (PDQ);
 - a brief written submission by the local union describing the grievance and referencing the appropriate sections of the job description and the PDQ;
 - a brief written submission by the University.

The parties shall deliver their written submissions to the other party at the same time that they are forwarded to the Arbitrator. No written submission or materials can be considered at the hearing that have not been provided by the parties in conformity with the process set out in this Article.

- (f) The parties agree that the process shall be informal and that legalistic processes normally used in conventional arbitration shall not be used. Up to three (3) management representatives and three (3) union representatives may attend the hearing. One (1) person from each side will be designated as the spokesperson. The Arbitrator may ask questions of any of the Union or management representatives present. The spokesperson for each party may give a summary statement normally not exceeding fifteen (15) minutes at the conclusion of the question period. While it is generally not the intent of the parties to use outside legal counsel at an expedited arbitration hearing, they shall notify the other party at least ten (10) working days in advance of the hearing.
- (g) The parties shall share equally the fees and expenses of the Arbitrator.
- (h) Time limits provided for in this Article may be varied or extended by specific written agreement of the parties in any particular proceeding.
- (i) The classification Arbitrator shall have jurisdiction to determine the classification of the employee(s) or positions. The classification Arbitrator shall not have jurisdiction to amend the Job Evaluation Plan.

APPENDIX B RETIREMENT

1. Normal Retirement Age

An employee shall normally retire at the end of the month in which he/she reaches age 65.

2. Extension Of Employment Beyond Normal Retirement Age

Notwithstanding the provision of paragraph 1 above, an employee who is nearing age 65 may, by mutual agreement with the University, have his/her employment extended beyond this age for a period or -- by successive extensions -- for periods of time up to the end of the year in which the employee reaches age 69.

Such an extension or extensions may be on a full workload basis or on a reduced workload basis with workload and salary reduction and conditions foreseen in sections 9, 10, 11, 12 and 13.

3. Application

This policy applies to career employees of the University, except those covered by a collective agreement in which specific retirement provisions have been negotiated between the University and the union/association.

Definition

In the Policy: "employee" means a career employee, i.e., an employee who is employed on an indefinite career basis who has satisfactorily completed the probationary period of his/her service, and includes an employee serving on an extension beyond normal retirement age.

4. Criteria For Extension Of Employment Beyond Normal Retirement Age

The following criteria will be used by decision makers to assess a request for extension of employment beyond normal retirement.

(a) The University's Operational Requirements

The University's operational requirements shall be paramount in assessing and determining whether a request for extension beyond normal retirement age should be approved.

In addition to the operational requirements of the university, the University shall consider the following factors:

- (i) Unique skills of the employee
- (ii) Difficulty in recruiting a replacement-- unusual market conditions

- (iii) Timing—cycle of the school year, such as registration or other key operational events which would negatively impact the department/university
- (iv) Overlapping--both employees required to ensure smooth transition, unique training imperatives, etc.

(b) Personal Reasons

From time to time an employee may request an extension of employment beyond normal retirement age due to personal reasons. Such reasons will be provided to the decision-makers and shall be satisfactory to the University.

5. Conditions

When the criteria for the above have been met, the following factors and conditions must be considered before an extension can be granted:

- Impact of Redundancy/Attrition--an extension should not create a lay-off situation or unnecessarily delay attrition plans.
- Impact on Ryerson Career Planning--must not unnecessarily delay the career plans of other employees.
- Acceptable record of performance and conduct--must be performing at an acceptable level.

6. Length Of Extension

Extensions for periods from 3-12 months will be considered when the above conditions have been met.

7. Benefits

Applicable benefits, excluding Long Term Disability, will be continued on the same basis as prior to the attainment of age 65.

8. Procedure

Either the University or the employee concerned may initiate discussions on reduced workload or extension beyond normal retirement age arrangements.

These discussions should take place well ahead of the intended commencement date of any such arrangement.

The employee shall be given full opportunity to express his/her wishes in this regard to explain the underlying reasons for them and to comment upon modalities by which, from the University's standpoint, they may best be met.

The final decision rests with the appropriate Vice President and the Executive Director, Human Resources.

9. Reduced Workload

Reduced Workload Arrangement Considerations:

In deciding whether to agree to any of the Reduced Workload arrangements set out in this policy, the University's decision shall be governed by its operational requirements.

In order to facilitate the transition of an employee from full load employment to full retirement, the employee shall be given the full opportunity to express his/her wishes concerning the timing, pace and nature of his/her proposal of a reduced workload arrangement. The employee's proposal shall be considered by the University.

In endeavoring to strike a balance between the interest of the employee and those of the University the University shall consider the feasibility of arrangements for dispensing with or for the absorption by others of the workload portion, which would remain if an employee were placed in reduced workload.

Subject to the above considerations:

- (a) An employee who has reached age 58, may by mutual agreement with the University, be placed for the remainder of the employee's service at the University in reduced workload status by having the employee's workload and salary reduced by an agreed percentage.
 - (b) If such a reduction is to no less than 75% of a full workload and the employee has no less than 10 years of service in the University and is within five years of an entitlement to an unreduced or normal retirement pension, the employee shall retain all of his/her benefits including paid sick leave, with the exception that Long Term Disability coverage will not continue beyond age 65.
 - (c) Furthermore, subject to the same conditions, if permissible under the terms of the pension plan and if so requested by the employee, participation in the pension plan shall be on the basis of a notional pensionable salary which shall be the equivalent of what the employee's pensionable salary would have been from time to time had he/she not had his/her workload and salary reduced. (d) Contributions to the pension plan by the University and by the employee shall then be calculated and paid on the basis of his/her notional pensionable salary. The employee's eventual pension will also be calculated on the same notional salary basis.
10. (a) If an employee has his/her workload and salary reduced but does not meet all the conditions specified in the paragraphs 9 (a) and (b) above, the employee's participation in the University's benefit plans shall cease except to the extent to which any particular benefit coverage is required by law or can be arranged at the employee's cost.
- (b) In such a case the employee's entitlement to paid sick leave shall be reduced in proportion to the reduction in his/her workload and salary.
11. When an employee's workload is reduced the rate of accumulation of vacation credits shall be reduced proportionately.

12. Post Retirement Work Arrangements

An employee who is between the ages of 55 and 69 inclusive and retires may be rehired by the University or may, by mutual agreement with the University be placed in another form of remunerative association with the University, such as, a long term consultative arrangement or a contract for completion of a given work or a succession of works.

If the employee is under the age of 65, and is hired into a position, which is normally eligible for membership in the pension plan, the retirement pension must cease, the employee will continue to accrue pension credits in his/her new position, and the ultimate retirement pension will be based on the employee's total pensionable service.

If the employee is over the age of 65, he/she may decline membership in the pension plan and may then continue to receive both his/her pension plus remuneration for services rendered. Alternatively, such employee may elect to enroll in the pension plan, in which case the treatment accorded to the employee who is under age 65 applies.

14. Volunteer Roles For Retired Employees

Retired employees may be invited to participate on a volunteer basis in the various boards, committees, task forces and working groups, existing in the University, as members and/or advisors.

15. Retirement Counseling

The University shall endeavor to organize pre-retirement counseling programs to assist employees who are approaching retirement in preparing for changes in their work and life on their eventual retirement. Furthermore, the Human Resources Department, the Financial Services Department, the Counseling Services, the Health Clinic and any other department or service of the University which may be helpful shall be available for advice on any individual problem facing an employee in the retirement zone.

16. Facilities And Participatory Activities For Retired Employees

Retired employees shall have the right to continue making use of the various University Services such as the Health Clinic, Counseling Services, Library and Food Services on the same basis on which these services are available to active employees; they are also encouraged to participate, on the same basis that applies to active employees, in activities of cultural, artistic, social or other nature taking place within the University. Under the University's present general policy, persons aged 60 or more can enroll tuition-free in any course offered by the University in its day or evening programs, such to applicable admission conditions.

Jurisdiction

This policy and its procedures falls under the jurisdiction of the Vice President, Administration and Student Affairs. The interpretation and application of this policy is the responsibility of the Human Resources Department.

On monitoring issues, the committee would operate on an advisory basis, with decisions being forwarded to the Employee Relations and Pensions Committee, for approval by the Board.

On benefit and corresponding financial issues, the committee would divide into a Union-Management relationship, with agreements being sent to the Board through the Employee Relations and Pensions Committee. If no agreement is reached, both positions would go to the Committee for final resolution.

The Committee will determine the frequency of meetings.

 - (b) the designated classifications or specific job classes eligible for consideration by the market adjustment program
 - (c) labour market information related to the program
 - (d) the value of the market adjustment
6. If the University determines that a market adjustment program is necessary for a designated classification or specific job classes, requests for consideration will be made at the departmental level but shall require the authorization and approval of the appropriate senior director or dean before consideration at the university level.

A GUIDE TO CIVILITY

I RYERSON UNIVERSITY AS A CIVIL LEARNING COMMUNITY

Introduction

Ryerson University is recognized for the excellence of its teaching, the relevance of its curriculum, the success of its students in achieving their academic and career objectives, the quality of its scholarship, research and creative activity, and its commitment to accessibility, lifelong learning, and involvement in the broader community.

Ryerson University is fundamentally committed to respect for human rights and dignity, academic freedom, and integrity in its governance and decision-making processes. The University places a high value on excellence in teaching and learning, and on scholarship, research and creative activities. It promotes accountability, openness and professional responsibility, and a safe humane work environment. To this end, the University has adopted and publicized policies, which are supportive of these important values, and made public its expectations. (See Appendix F).

This document sets out the rights and responsibilities of Ryerson University community members, provides guidance on civil behaviour and outlines avenues of redress and resolution for legitimate concerns and conflicts that may arise within the University.

These guidelines are not intended to impinge upon or contravene any legislative act, statute, collective agreement or University policy. Rather, the guidelines are intended to embrace and support them.

Ryerson University's Principles and Values

Within its introductory paragraphs, Ryerson's Academic Plan, Learning Together, offers us the following perspective on the learning community.

The idea of a learning community is a powerful one that embraces every dimension of university life. The learning component of the term speaks to the activities that give us our raison d'être: SRC activity, academic programs, teaching and learning, co-ops and clinical placements, reflective scholarship and so on. We are all engaged in learning; it is what we are here to do. The community component is about people. It implies interconnection, and signals that everyone in the university – faculty, students, staff and administrators – has a role to play in a shared enterprise. Taken together, learning community speaks to a spirit of inquiry, intellectual discovery, and a shared search for understanding.

A key objective in creating a learning community is to enrich the flow of ideas and intellectual energy, and to do so in an atmosphere of academic freedom and mutual respect.

Purpose and Objectives of this Guide

The purpose of this Guide is to promote the creation and maintenance of a civil culture and environment within the Ryerson community. Its key objectives are to:

1. Promote a proactive approach to creating and maintaining a culture where all Ryerson community members are treated with respect and dignity, consistent with the University's stated values and principles;
2. Clarify individual, organizational and management rights and responsibilities;
3. Educate members of the Ryerson community about the impact of incivility and the types of behaviours that constitute incivility; and
4. Provide information about resources available to members of the Ryerson community.

Goal for the Ryerson Community

The goal of this initiative is to encourage all members of the Ryerson community to be active participants in and to contribute to the creation and enhancement of a productive learning, teaching, work culture and environment characterized by the following values:

1. Respect for academic freedom and encourage free inquiry and debate;
2. Act as a community of scholars and embrace intellectual discovery;
3. Lead and inspire societal change and development;
4. Appreciate, respect, and encourage diversity;
5. Recognize the dignity of all community members, affording them fair and equitable treatment and showing concern for their safety and needs;
6. Value integrity and trustworthiness;
7. Treat personal and University property with respect; and
8. Search for a shared understanding of the "common" good.

Relationship of Guide to University Policies and Collective Agreements

Nothing in this Guide shall be construed to change established University policies and/or collective agreements relative to academic freedom or other rights and obligations in these documents.

Nothing in this Guide shall be construed to change established and approved student assessment and feedback protocols as required by the curriculum, departmental council policies and practices or academic council policies.

This Guide should in no way encourage spurious complaints and grievances against members of the University's management. Academic and administrative leaders have the right to lead, manage, supervise and direct the activities of employees and employees have the obligation to accept that supervision and direction.

Discrimination or Harassment

The University's policy on Discrimination and Harassment Prevention specifically addresses incidents of harassment and discrimination related to prohibited grounds under the Ontario Human Rights Code (i.e. race, ancestry, place of origin, colour, ethnic origin, citizenship, creed, sex, sexual orientation, age, record of offences, marital status, family status, disability, same-sex partnership status).

Ryerson community members with concerns related to discrimination and harassment are encouraged to contact Discrimination and Harassment Prevention Services. Copies of the University's policy may be obtained either through that office or on the DHPS web site at www.ryerson.ca/equity/dhpspolicy.htm.

II CIVILITY AT RYERSON

What is Civility?

Civility requires respectful non-violent interaction among individuals and groups.

Civility Stakeholders

In a university environment the impact of incivility, whether directed to students, visitors, faculty or staff, can affect the quality of teaching and research, the success of students, the reputation of the university, and the efficiency and effectiveness of operations.

Who is Responsible for Civility?

Creating and maintaining a civil culture and environment is a shared responsibility of all stakeholders in the Ryerson community. Each individual, irrespective of affiliation, status or membership, has a responsibility to behave in a manner that sustains and fosters a climate of civility and reinforces the values and principles articulated in these guidelines.

Leadership

Individuals who hold leadership positions and authority, whether appointed or elected to such positions, have particular responsibility not only for their own behaviour and actions but also for ensuring, to the extent of their authority and ability that:

1. A positive and productive learning, teaching, and work environment and culture is created and maintained;
2. Conflicts and concerns are addressed in a positive, timely, reasonable and effective manner; and
3. Persons within their jurisdiction are informed of their rights and responsibilities with respect to behaviours and conduct.

Community Members

All community members are individually responsible for maintaining a civil culture and environment. Faculty and staff shall perform their duties and responsibilities in a professional manner. Faculty, staff and students must be aware of their rights and responsibilities (see Appendix A and Appendix D) and ensure that incidents of incivility are addressed as provided for in this guide.

III DEALING WITH INCIVILITY

Civility requires respectful non-violent interaction among individuals and groups. Incivility can be any unintended or deliberate conduct or comment, directed at another individual, that a reasonable person knows, or ought to know, is unwelcome or inappropriate. Harassment is a common example of incivility, however, incivility is not limited to grounds specified in the Ontario Human Rights Code. Incivility can be subtle or overt. It may be a single event or may involve a continuing series of incidents and may involve the abuse of authority or position. Inappropriate behaviours can victimize both men and women, and may be towards, by, or between faculty, students, staff, volunteers, visitors, alumni or any other individuals that Ryerson community members interact with in the course of their employment or learning.

Incivility deals with a broad range of unacceptable behaviours including but not limited to behaviours such as: rudeness, shouting, swearing, unprofessional behaviour, intimidation, bullying, threatening comments or behaviours/actions, unsolicited and unwelcome conduct, comment (oral or written including email communication), gesture or contact which causes offense or humiliation, or physical or emotional harm to any individual which creates fear or mistrust, or which compromises and devalues the individual.

How are Individuals Held Accountable for Incivility?

Faculty, Instructors and Staff: The usual practice of the University is to deal with instances of inappropriate and unacceptable behaviour consistent with the principles of progressive discipline.

The usual steps of progressive discipline are as follows:

1. Communication of standards and expectations concerning performance, conduct and/or behaviour;
2. Letter of counsel (written documentation of above);
3. Verbal reprimand, if appropriate;
4. Written reprimand, if appropriate;
5. Suspension(s) without pay or other financial sanctions;
6. Discharge.

In cases of gross misconduct, significant disciplinary steps may be taken without proceeding through the steps.

It is important to note that the provisions of the respective collective agreements that the University has with its associations and/or unions, will guide university administrators with respect to the imposition of discipline and/or sanctions. Nothing in this Guide detracts from the obligations and/or the responses under any existing policies of the University governing legally appropriate behaviour.

Students: Students found responsible for inappropriate behaviours are discussed in this Guide are dealt with according to the Student Code of Non-Academic Conduct through the office of the Director, Student Services. Instances of academic misconduct are dealt with under the Student Code of Academic Conduct.

How Do We Deal with Incidents of Incivility?

In order to create and maintain a civil culture and environment it is important to identify incidents of incivility and to deal with the incidents quickly and appropriately. Members of the Ryerson community must understand what is meant by incivility, feel comfortable with addressing their concerns and be aware of their rights and responsibilities.

Generally, and where appropriate, members of the community should address incidents directly with the individual responsible for the behaviour. This allows the opportunity to clear up misunderstandings or to resolve complaints informally, without having to go through a formal process.

If the informal, direct intervention does not resolve the issues or concerns, then community members are encouraged to seek advice and assistance from a variety of resources available to them, which are listed below.

In the event that this second intervention option does not resolve the issues or concerns, the community member may exercise his/her right to lodge a formal complaint using the existing recourses available to them through University policies and/or collective agreements.

It is important to note that informal resolutions are not always an option. Where matters are governed by law or specific policy, requirements may preclude informal resolution. It is important to be aware of rights and responsibilities under specific laws and policies or to seek advice from the individuals at the University who are responsible for the application of specific laws and policies.

Where Can I Go For Help?

Depending upon the nature of the issue at hand, an individual may be advised to address a query, concern or complaint to a specific office. However, in general, the following offices are recommended to assist community members with issues involving incivility.

Students are encouraged to seek assistance from the following resources:

1. Academic Advisors
2. Student's program department
3. Director, Student Services
4. Ombudsperson
5. Discrimination and Harassment Prevention Services
6. Student Services advisors and counsellors
7. RyeSAC or CESAR
8. Dean
9. Vice President, Administration and Student Affairs

Faculty, instructors and staff may obtain assistance from one of the following offices:

1. Immediate supervisor (chair, director, dean)
2. Human Resources including Employment Equity
3. Vice Provost, Faculty Affairs
4. Provost and Vice President Academic
5. Vice President, Administration and Student Affairs

APPENDIX A Legal Framework

Ontario Human Rights Code

Incidents of incivility may contravene the Code. For further details, community members should refer to the University's Discrimination and Harassment Prevention policy, or contact Discrimination and Harassment Prevention Services.

LETTER #5 REMUNERATION PENDING WSIB DETERMINATION

July 1, 2004

To: Stephanie Blake
 President, OPSEU
 Local 596

This letter will reflect our discussions at the current round of negotiations with respect to the process regarding the remuneration of employees with a potential workplace injury.

The arrangements outlined below shall remain in force for the duration of this collective agreement only.

Where an employee is not able to continue working or is absent from work because of a potential workplace injury or incident, the University will continue to pay the employee 85% of his/her normal salary for a period of twenty-two (22) working days provided the following conditions are met:

1. The employee must co-operate and complete all required WSIB and/or University documentation in a timely manner and must provide evidence to the University to that effect.
2. The employee must fully co-operate with any request for information made by the WSIB.
3. The employee must seek medical attention in a timely fashion following his/her absence from work and is required to sign a release to allow the University's medical director designate to substantiate the absence from work. The University shall provide a copy of the signed release to the Union.

It is understood by the parties that the information disclosed or any other communication from the treating Health Professional will not include diagnostic or clinical information, save and except any such disclosure or communication to the University's medical director designate.

In the event that the University's medical director designate cannot substantiate the absence, the parties agree that the employee's remuneration shall cease until the employee returns to work.

If the University's medical director designate substantiates the absence and the WSIB subsequently denies the employee's claim, the parties agree that the employee will be placed on sick leave, for the applicable time period, retroactive to the start of the absence. Further, the University shall provide the employee with the remaining 15% of his/her normal salary for the applicable time period.

The parties understand and agree that if the employee's claim is approved, the WSIB shall remit to the University any monies allocated for the first twenty-two (22) working days of the claim.

The parties further understand and agree that the above arrangements are being entered into merely as an administrative convenience, and are without prejudice to the University's position on WSIB policy or the legitimacy of the employee's WSIB claim nor in any way fetter or impede the University's right to question the legitimacy of an employee's WSIB claim or the legitimacy of an employee's claim for sick leave. Accordingly, an employee's status during the initial twenty-two (22) working day period and beyond is either that of WSIB pending, sick leave or an injured worker on WSIB and not that of an active employee of the University.

A procedure to facilitate the above process as determined by the Human Resources Department and communicated to the Union shall apply.
